

Summary

I want my website to somewhat represent the look of the real website. I'd like to keep the blue theme, but make it modern, clean, and easily accessible. I will do this by simplifying the main page, and put the list of horses on a secondary page. This way, the front page can be completely dedicated to introducing the company. I feel like this is the best course of action because it simplifies the web page the most, and makes it more interesting to the user

Layouts

Mobile Home Page: I want the mobile home page to somewhat resemble this, where the actual design is limited, but it is a very simple way to lead to the next page

Desktop Home Page: I'd like the desktop home page to look like this, with the options to go to other pages clearly laid out at the top, and with design/pictures in the middle

Desktop Secondary Page: I'd like the secondary page to look somewhat like this. Keeping the color scheme of the home page, but showing an organized table showing off the horses
